

Greetings

Dear Stakeholders,

We are pleased to provide to you our “Social and Environmental Report 2009”. As a key supplier to shipping, shipbuilding, electric power, steel, construction, and woodworking industries, we are aware that we have a role to play in contributing to the development of such industries by improving the performance of our paints, which support the development of a prosperous society. We are also aware that this can only be realised by acknowledging the importance of the environment and by integrating such awareness into our company activities.

In broadening the aspects of our policy to pursue better product performance for environmental protection, we have approached the safety of manufacturing and selling processes and focused upon the reduction of environmental burden from various perspectives. Our activities include supply of paints containing no tar, nor harmful substances, or solvent-free paints for the reduction of VOC (volatile organic content), the declaration of “Coatings Care”, which is a voluntary management program on production process for Environment, Safety and Health proposed by the Japan Paint Manufacturers Association. Our activities also include the acquisition of ISO14001 environmental management certification and the construction of broad-ranging chemical material control systems.

Meanwhile, as a member of society, we are aware that we have a responsibility to be socially reliable and contribute to social development. For this, we are engaged in corporate governance and internal control as a management priority hence ensuring corporate soundness and transparency. We maintain good relationship with local communities through our 26 overseas affiliated companies in 14 countries around the world.

We would take great pleasure if this report could be of help to you in having an insight into the activities of our company.

CMP, as a whole group of companies, globally operates its business to be reliable and needed in today's world. We therefore kindly ask you, and would appreciate it if you would send us your opinion or suggestion regarding anything related our company to assist with this.
